Introduction

The following excerpts are taken off of “Beetle” (2020) and “The Beatles” (2020).

Beetles

This subsection talks about beetles.

Heaviest Beetle

The goliath beetle. The heaviest beetle, indeed the heaviest insect stage, is the larva of the goliath beetle, G. goliatus, which can attain a mass of at least 115 g and a length of 11.5 cm.

Heaviest beetle in its adult stage. Adult male goliath beetles are the heaviest beetle in its adult stage, weighing 70–100 g and measuring up to 11 cm.

The Beatles

In The Beatles as Musicians, Walter Everett describes Lennon and McCartney’s contrasting motivations and approaches to composition: “McCartney may be said to have constantly developed—as a means to entertain—a focused musical talent with an ear for counterpoint and other aspects of craft in the demonstration of a universally agreed-upon common language that he did much to enrich. Conversely, Lennon’s mature music is best appreciated as the daring product of a largely unconscious, searching but undisciplined artistic sensibility.”
